Benefits of studying Gender & Women's Studies abroad:

- Explore the range of cultural influences and ideologies of gender and women's studies
- Understand the global framework for gender-related issues
- Develop a new and richer bucket of knowledge to enhance and guide your gender and women's studies as they relate to other contemporary issues worldwide
- Complete a Richter and do research abroad
- Take unique courses that are not offered at NCC
- Courses are taught in English
- Keep your NCC-based financial aid
- Take 12-15 NCC credits each term
- Travel and explore new places

"Studying abroad in Asia changed not only how I understood foreign cultures, but also my own as I experienced it through others' eyes. I learned more talking with the friends I made over fish head curry and red bean ice cream than I did in most classes."

Grace Morris, Studio Art major, Gender & Women's Studies and IMS minors, studied at LASALLE College of the Arts in Singapore, Fall 2014
