

WELCOME HOME

Welcome to North Central College. You're arriving on campus at an exciting time. For 157 years, North Central College has been a community dedicated to academic excellence and committed to preparing students like you to be curious, engaged, ethical, and purposeful citizens and leaders in local, national, and global contexts—our mission statement.

Reading this book is your first step toward being an active, successful member of our community. You'll learn that faculty, staff and upper-class students are as interested in your success as they are their own. You'll recognize we are a community of learners interested in making people feel welcomed, challenged and engaged. You'll find a place where you belong—a place that today becomes your college home.

The words to the College's alma mater refer to North Central College as "the school we love." It is my sincere hope that North Central College becomes the school you love the way generations of students before you have loved North Central.

When you have questions about the information in this book or about your transition to North Central College, please contact the Office of Student Affairs at 630-637-5151. Congratulations on your decision to attend North Central College and welcome to the Cardinal family!

Getting Reading for Move-In Day

If you will be living on campus, there are a few things to consider before Move-in Day. For more information regarding campus living, consult the Residence Life section of the Student Life chapter in this booklet.

Preparing to Live With a Roommate

Sharing a living space with someone new can create excitement, anticipation and, sometimes, anxiety. You may have an idea of what you expect of your roommate(s). Maybe you are looking for a close friend you can confide in, or you might just want a respectful relationship with your roommate and nothing more. Regardless, you will have some important things to consider as you begin this new relationship. If not agreed upon early, cleaning schedules, noise levels, visitors and shared items can quickly transform a friendly situation into a stressful one. Here are some tips for establishing a healthy living arrangement with your roommate(s).

Communicate: Over the summer you will receive your roommate and housing assignment in the mail. Please contact your roommate and begin your relationship with solid communication. Like any new relationship, first impressions are important. Make a list of important or interesting things your new roommate(s) should know about you. When you're ready, pick up the phone and call! We know it can be a nerve-racking experience, but remember, this is the first step toward building what can be a fun and memorable relationship. Great questions to begin your conversation include:

- » Why did you choose North Central College?
- » What are your academic interests/major?
- » What are your favorite bands, movies, TV shows, websites, books, foods, hobbies, etc.?
- » What was your high school experience like?
- » What are you planning to bring (TV, fridge, etc.)?
- » What stresses you out and how do you de-stress?
- » What are you most nervous about, and what are you most excited about?

Suspend judgment: Don't judge a book by its cover. With the popularity of Facebook and other online social networking sites, it's important to keep in mind that your profile may not reflect who you are in person. Give your roommate(s) the courtesy of remaining open-minded, too. The college experience is about learning new things and meeting/living with people different from you. You will be amazed by the connections you can make when you step outside your comfort zone!

Think ahead: Living with someone can be challenging, so prepare yourself to develop a strong roommate relationship. Compromise will be extremely important as living together involves blending different lifestyles. This means sometimes accepting another way of doing things. For example, you might be an early bird and your roommate may be a night owl. You will need to find a compromise. That doesn't mean one person is surrendering to another; it just means you are working together toward a solution you can both live with. Once living together, if you are frustrated about something, talk to your roommate(s). If you and your roommate(s) are having problems communicating, talk to your Resident Assistant. They can help you find the right words to say and help to mediate any situation fairly.

Lofts: North Central College works with Bedloft.com to rent lofts to students who wish to loft their beds. Lofts should be reserved and paid for in advance of move-in. For more information about loft rental or to purchase a futon or rent a micro-fridge, go to Bedloft.com. Lofts rented through Bedloft.com are the only lofts permitted in the residence halls at North Central. Pickup for lofts is on Move-in Day for first-year students and the following weekend for upper-class students. All lofts must be disassembled and returned during a set return date late in spring term.

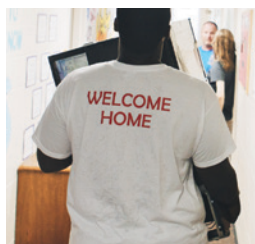

Laundry: Every residence hall has washer and dryer units that are free to use for all residents. User guides are posted in each laundry room. If you have any questions related to the College's laundry service system, feel free to contact the office of Residence Life at 630-637-5858 or reslife@noctrl.edu.

If you are not covered, we encourage you to purchase renter's insurance. Remember to record the serial numbers of your valuable possessions for insurance purposes and utilize Campus Safety's Property Registry Form, located here: cardinalnet.northcentralcollege.edu/property-registry.

Be Central. Be Sustainable.

Sustainability at North Central College

North Central College is committed to promoting and practicing environmental sustainability. Through a variety of campus programs and initiatives, you can help to sustain our environment. In doing so, you're living the College mission by becoming informed, involved, principled and productive citizens and leaders over your lifetime. Here at North Central, it's easy to be "sustainable."

- » Learn how to recycle right. Simply read one of the many recycling signs on campus located above blue recycling bins to get educated on what is or is not recyclable.
- » Buy online or used textbooks to reduce paper use and waste and save yourself some money.
- » The iPrint program allows you to print from your personal computer to any public printer on campus.
- » You'll receive a recycling bin in your residence hall room. When it's full, just dump it into the blue bin next to your floor's garbage bin.
- » When possible, turn off your overhead room lighting and use a lamp with a compact fluorescent or LED bulb. When you leave your room, turn out all the lights!
- » Instead of bringing bottled water for your residence hall room, consider purchasing a filtered water pitcher and a reusable water bottle. It will save you money and produce less waste.
- » Reduce paper waste by using refillable binders for class instead of using spiral notebooks.
- » Wash your clothes in cold water. If there is no "cold" setting, use the "colors" option for cold water. It causes less heat damage to your clothing and uses less electricity.
- » Unplug electronics not in use to reduce standby energy use. Gaming systems, computers, TVs, DVD and Blue-ray players, cell phone chargers and other electronics use energy even when not in use.

Move-in Recycling Program

Over the past few years, the College has recycled approximately one ton of cardboard from move-in weekends alone. Cardboard recycling stations are designated at each residence hall. The cleaning, maintenance, and residence life staffs will collect the cardboard and relocate the materials to the recycle dumpster. If you do pack in cardboard, please be sure to ask for the location of your recycling station.

Campus Sustainability Initiatives

Mixed indoor and outdoor recycling

The mixed recycling program provides faculty, staff and students with the opportunity to easily recycle a variety of paper, metal, plastic and glass materials in the same bin. Large bins and recycling instructions can be found in common areas in administrative, academic and residence buildings, as well as outdoor recycling stations. Refer to the signs located above common area bins for detailed instructions. North Central College recycles approximately 30 percent of its total waste per month, and with your help we can reach our waste diversion goal of 40 percent by 2020.

On Campus

Water bottle filling stations

Water bottle filling stations provide filtered water and are located in Goldspohn Hall, Oesterle Library, Benedetti-Wehrli Stadium, Kiekhof Hall, Seager Residence Hall, New Hall, the Res/Rec Center, Wentz Science Center and Old Main. A numeric counter tracks the number of plastic bottles that are saved from entering the waste stream.

Cardinal Red Bike Program

Cardinal Red Bikes can be checked out on a term-by-term basis with no fee. The cruiser-style bikes come with cable locks for personal use on and off campus. Bike rack parking is available throughout campus. The program operates on a first-come, first-serve basis, and bikes are distributed in Jefferson Plaza on specific dates. For more information, contact the Office of Transportation/Campus Safety at 630-637-5664.

Community garden

The campus community recognizes this project as an opportunity for a suburban college to promote locally grown, healthy food options in the dining hall—an area that interacts with students daily. The sustainable garden is complete with irrigation and compost bins. Student, faculty, staff and community volunteers help maintain these plots along with gardening staff. Students can also secure their own plot to plant vegetables and flowers. To get involved, email sustainability@noctrl.edu.

EV Charging Stations

North Central College has installed electric vehicle charging stations, making it easier for members of the campus community to own and use electric cars. One electric vehicle charging station is located in the Old Main parking lot off Loomis Street. The station can charge two vehicles simultaneously in two adjacent parking spaces. The second charging station is located on the bottom level of the Highland Street parking deck, next to the Residence Hall/Recreation Center. Both stations may be used free of charge by any North Central College student, faculty, staff or campus visitor. Serious in its efforts to reduce vehicle emissions, the College hopes

Green Features for Your Residence Hall Room

1. Energy Star TV

Energy Star-qualified TVs use about 30 percent less energy than standard units; look for the Energy Star logo when purchasing a TV for your room.

2. Power strip

Use a power strip to prevent phantom loads from electronics and appliances that draw energy even when they are turned off. This prevents wasted standby energy, which can really add up when you have a cell phone, iPod, stereo, game system, etc. Make sure to switch off your power strip when you leave the room or purchase a Smart Strip, which automatically powers down electronics when an appliance is turned off.

3. Computer

Use your computer's energy saver settings. Make sure to set your computer and computer monitor to sleep automatically after a period of inactivity. For further energy savings, consider purchasing an Energy Star-labeled laptop, which uses 70 percent less energy than computers without this designation.

4. Brita pitcher and reusable water bottle

The production and transportation of one disposable bottle of water requires the energy equivalent to filling that bottle one quarter full with oil. Purchase a reusable water bottle and use a Brita if you prefer the taste of filtered water.

5. Organic linens

Conventional cotton sheet sets require the use of about 1.5 pounds of agricultural chemicals. Purchasing organic cotton sheets, towels and curtains helps prevent those chemicals from being released into the environment.

6. LED light bulbs

LED light bulbs use 75 percent less energy and last 25 times longer than incandescent bulbs. Make it a habit to turn off the lights whenever you'll be out of your room for more than 15 minutes.

7. Recycling bin

North Central is a single stream recycling program; all plastic, paper, metal cans, cardboard and glass bottles can be put into one recycling bin.

8. Laundry

About 90 percent of the energy used for washing clothes in a conventional washing machine is used to heat the water. Reduce your energy usage by using cold water to wash your clothes. Also, save energy by air-drying your clothing. Easy fold-up drying racks can be quickly stored away when not in use.

9. Energy Star refrigerator

If a refrigerator is a necessity in your room, the College asks that you purchase an Energy Star-labeled mini-refrigerator to ensure its energy efficiency.

10. Green cleaning

North Central has moved to a green cleaning system and so can you. Purchase nontoxic, biodegradable substitutes for cleaning and laundry detergent options.

11. Reusable cutlery

Rather than bringing disposable utensils/cutlery-like plates, forks, knives, etc.—consider bringing reusable items.

12. Second-chance furniture

Check out a secondhand shop for furniture and appliances to fill your space.

13. Task lighting

Lighting accounts for about a quarter of all electricity consumed in the United States. Use task lighting; focus the light where you need it and turn off overhead lighting.

this project will encourage a campus trend toward more sustainable vehicles.

Off Campus

Zipcar

If you have decided to forgo the hassles associated with having a car on campus, you don't have to be car-less. Since 2008, North Central College has housed two Zipcar vehicles. This is a car-sharing program for drivers over age 18 that allows you to rent a car by the hour. The cost to sign up for the Zipcar program for North Central College students and employees is just $25 annually and $8 per hour of rental. History and Traditions

History of the College

Founded in 1861 when Abraham Lincoln was president, North Central College is one of the oldest institutions of higher education in the Midwest and one of the first to educate both men and women. Until 1870, the College was located in Plainfield, IL, and was originally known as Plainfield College. The name was changed to North-Western College in 1864 and to North Central College in 1926 to avoid confusion with another institution by a similar name in Evanston, Ill.

The College's founders believed that "Christian commitment and intellectual attainments are compatible." And from the beginning, North Central was nonsectarian in its hiring and admission practices. This pioneering concept, along with the commitment to inclusiveness and diversity that are hallmarks of the United Methodist Church, is the heritage of North Central College. The College moved to Naperville, Ill., then an agricultural village of fewer than 2,000 people located on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad line. Today, Naperville is one of the most desirable cities in the nation, with a population of some 146,000 residents, outstanding community services and a reputation as a national center of scientific research and development.

The College is committed to academic excellence; a climate that emphasizes leadership, ethics and values; a curriculum that balances practical knowledge in job-related fields with a liberal arts foundation in writing, speaking and thinking; and a caring environment with small classes where individuality is encouraged.

North Central College is known nationally for the quality of its faculty and students and is consistently recognized by U.S. News & World Report magazine as one of "America's Best Colleges."

Fight Song

Stand up and join the cry, and cheer North Central's red and white.
We'll raise our voices high, to show the world the Cardinals' fight.
(yell) Fight, fight, fight!
Fans let your spirit fly; our latest victory's in sight.
For we're proud to be true, and loyal to you, our red and white.
N, O, RTH
C, E, NTRAL
(yell) Hey, Cards, let's unite!
(repeat first stanza)

Alma Mater

The Alma Mater was written in 1907 by Jessie Cowles and Albert Krug, both from the class of 1908, as their submission for a school song contest announced during chapel with the winner receiving a $5 gold piece. Albert and Jessie were married in 1911, following Albert's graduation from seminary.

North Central is the school we love,
To her we sing this praise,
And from the East and from the West,
You hear the voices raise...
Hail! Hail! North Central Hail!
Our Alma Mater true,
We'll always, always, loyal be,
To you, to you, to you.

School Colors and Chippy the Cardinal Mascot

While the earliest reference to the school colors of cardinal and white is 1896, athletic teams were not identified with these school colors until the mid-1910s. The mid-1920s saw the name Cardinals used for the first time. The earliest use of a Cardinal mascot is unknown, although Chippy is now a fixture at many campus events.

The Class Rock

The Class of 1876 presented the College with a huge boulder as a class memorial. The rock played an important role for many years at the College. In the early days of the College, its location in front of Old Main interfered with the students' athletic contests and, according to tradition, in the midst of "a dark night," a group of students buried the stone.

In 1929, another group of students, following a study of old photographs and survey of the grounds, excavated the rock. The rock remained on the Old Main lawn for many years after the initial excavation and became the site of many class rivalries. A tradition was for different classes to paint the rock in their colors/class year and then post members of the class to guard the rock from other classes stealing it by painting it in their colors.

The story of the rock sadly comes to an end sometime in the 1960s. It is unclear what caused the rock to be buried again, but in 1965 a group of students re-excavated the rock and christened it with “holy pond water” from the Fort Hill pond. However, the rock was secretly hauled away in 1965 and its current whereabouts are unknown.

Bill Shatzer Statue in Championship Plaza

On the south end of campus in Championship Plaza is a statue of former North Central College multisport athlete Bill Shatzer. Shatzer, class of 1942, planned to play professional football with the Detroit Lions; however, these plans were set aside when he was called up for active duty by the U.S. Navy during World War II. On May 16, 1944, Shatzer was reported missing in action and presumed dead. Shatzer is remembered and memorialized in the statue in Championship Plaza, not only for athletic prowess, but for his citizenship and self-sacrifice.

Annual Campus Events

Opening Convocation

Opening Convocation is held during Welcome Week and is the traditional ceremony that marks the official start to the academic year. Faculty process in full academic regalia as the College welcomes new students into the North Central College family.

The Huddle

A fall term celebration, the Huddle brings together all Cardinal student-athletes, athletic staff members and faculty mentors. Included is an inspirational welcome and opportunity for the Student Athletic Advisory Committee and athlete mentors to directly address the student-athletes.

Homecoming

Homecoming is an annual event conducted jointly by North Central College and the Alumni Association. Homecoming traditions date back to 1920, when the College invited alumni back to campus in connection with a football game against Monmouth. In 1921, the College decided to make it a regular event and by 1923 a pep rally and parade were part of the festivities. As time went by, the tradition of electing a Homecoming queen and king was added to the annual Homecoming celebration. Current students still celebrate with a pep rally and parade as well as a week full of events that culminate with the Homecoming football game and Reunion Celebration with dinner and dancing.

Family Weekend

Family Weekend, introduced in fall 1992, replaced separate Mom's Day and Dad's Day events. Family Weekend is a time when the College welcomes families of students for a weekend of planned activities and informal visiting.

Anti-Hate Week

Each fall the College engages in a weeklong campaign designed to raise awareness about discrimination and oppression. Through a variety of student-led activities focused on promoting awareness, Anti-Hate Week typically includes a speaker and a series of other events designed to spark conversation and understanding.

The Changemaker Challenge

Started in 2016, the Changemaker Challenge invites all students to pitch their idea for social change before a panel of distinguished judges, with the opportunity of winning significant prize money and mentoring to bring their ideas to life. Students can propose short-term projects or plans for launching a non-profit organization or social enterprise.

Late-Night Pancake Breakfast

Each term the Office of Residence Life hosts a late-night pancake breakfast at Kaufman Dining Hall the Sunday night before finals. Faculty and staff come to campus to serve breakfast and visit with students as they take a break from the rigors of preparing for final exams.

December Term (D-Term)

D-Term refers to the three weeks between Thanksgiving and winter break. D-Term provides students with unique opportunities, from study abroad trips to places like Greece and Spain, service trips to places like Honduras or the Appalachian region, or local experiences like theatre in Chicago. Resident students who stay on campus during D-Term pay no extra fees for housing or meals. D-Term is a vibrant time at North Central College for all students with events and activities taking place daily.

MLK Week

MLK Week is an annual celebration of the College's history of building bridges among cultures. Each January, the College recognizes the impact of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s life. King spoke at North Central on November 21, 1960, so the celebration of his life has special meaning for the College. Events include a prayer breakfast, Gospel Extravaganza and keynote speaker.

TEDxNorthCentralCollege

Licensed by TED, the popular global platform for "ideas worth spreading," North Central College now hosts an annual, independently organized TEDxNorthCentralCollege event. Featuring distinguished alumni speakers, select student speakers, performances and videos, this TEDx event is a showcase of the fruits of a North Central education.

Feed the Need

A new tradition, North Central College now hosts an annual meal-packing event as part of the Feed My Starving Children, Feed the Need! MobilePack with a coalition of Naperville churches, schools and community groups. In one weekend, hundreds of North Central students are among the thousands of community members to pack more than one million meals that feed starving children around the world.

Intersection

Each year, faculty, staff and students spend a Saturday joining community members for a day of service designed to bring communities together to find commonality. Students can serve at one of several different community locations. Typical options include helping run a youth sports program, cleaning school playgrounds, serving at a food pantry, painting, running a fun fair with special needs children and their families, doing landscaping and cleaning, and much more.

Honors Day

A celebration of academic excellence, Honors Day includes the Rall Symposium for Undergraduate Research; Honors Convocation, which recognizes top graduating seniors and includes awards presentations for outstanding academic achievement and service; and the recognition ceremonies of more than 20 different honor societies.

Rall Symposium for Undergraduate Research

The Rall Symposium for Undergraduate Research is a forum for North Central students to present their original scholarship. It is held on Honors Day in May and is open to students from all academic areas across the College. Each year, the Rall Symposium welcomes a keynote speaker of national reputation and gives students an opportunity to present themselves as scholars to the wider community.

The Rall Symposium was established in 1997 to honor Joseph Edward "Ed" Rall, M.D., Ph.D., an internationally renowned research scientist and administrator at the National Institutes of Health (NIH). A 1940 North Central graduate and son of the College's fifth president Dr. Edward Everett Rall, Rall died in February 2008.

Cornerstone Day

Cornerstone Day celebrates North Central's legacy in Naperville. On May 17, 1870, the cornerstone of Old Main was laid with great ceremony, signaling the College's move from Plainfield to Naperville. Each May, the College holds an outdoor picnic and enjoys cuisine from Naperville restaurants and music from various campus ensembles.

Springfest

Organized by the College Union Activities Board (CUAB), Springfest is a traditional event on campus. Springfest includes live music, novelty and interactive games, student organization booths, giveaways and a barbecue.

Commencement

This annual ceremony in June confers undergraduate and graduate degrees upon September, December, April and June graduates. Your time at North Central will fly by and participating in Commencement to receive your degree will culminate all your hard work.

SUCCESS

ACADEMIC SUCCESS

Check out this chapter to learn about the unique academic opportunities and support services available to you as a North Central College student. This section provides an introduction to academic life specifically at North Central College.

ACADEMIC SUCCESS

Your Academic Experience

As part of our great community of learners, you can expect to be engaged in the study of our world, its miracles and conflicts, from varying points of view. At North Central College you'll learn to think, speak and write clearly—and exchange and debate ideas in an atmosphere of mutual respect. You'll cultivate and sharpen your analytical and communication skills, allowing you to master whatever lies ahead—graduate or professional school, career, service—and anything else that may come your way.

During your years here, you'll weave together three strands of the curriculum—general education, academic major and exploration. You'll enhance your classroom experience with all the great internship and research opportunities available in Naperville, the Chicago area and other national or even international locations.

The First-Year Experience (FYE)

If you are in your first year at North Central College, you'll participate in our FYE program that connects you with the information, people and resources you'll need to be successful. You'll establish connections with your faculty mentor and student mentor, learn about college-level coursework and expectations, and build friendships with other students in your FYE class.

Each year the FYE program selects a book that addresses some of the important issues you will be discussing at North Central College. You, your future classmates, your faculty mentor, and your first-year mentor will have the common experience of reading this book and thinking about its themes during the summer. This book is also the primary reading source in your First-Year Seminar course, FYE 100.

The summer book is just the beginning. You'll also have the opportunity to attend cultural events and participate in experiences throughout the term. The FYE program is aimed at providing you with all the tools to maximize your potential as a North Central College student.

Your First-Year Experience will:

- » Prepare you for college-level academic work
- » Introduce you to the opportunities available at North Central College
- » Help you design a four-year plan
- » Encourage your academic, social and personal development
- » Facilitate a strong relationship with your faculty mentor
- » Help you choose or solidify your major or area of study
- » Connect you with successful upper-class students
- » Help you build friendships with your classmates, including those who have similar academic interests
- » Provide the foundation necessary for you to have a successful college experience

General Education

Recognizing the dramatic transformations in the first decades of the 21st century and looking forward to the ever-accelerating pace of change, North Central College has developed a general education curriculum that offers you opportunities to thrive. You'll build a foundation of skills and experience an array of approaches to learning that will serve you over a lifetime. Interdisciplinary aspects of general education will help you make connections among areas of study to enrich insight and to reveal alternative ways of problem solving. The general education curriculum will prepare you to exercise ethical and informed leadership in the dynamic global environment of the 21st century.

Core courses are at the heart of the general education curriculum. As you'll see from the list of requirements, you'll receive a solid liberal arts foundation, giving particular attention to writing, oral communication, quantitative reasoning, critical thinking and integrative learning. Your choice of courses will allow you to forge your own special academic identity in preparation for the roles you'll play in public life and in your chosen profession.

The Core

- » English Composition - 6 credit hours
- » Speech Communication - 3 credit hours
- » Mathematics - 3 credit hours
- » Life and Physical Sciences - 6.5 credit hours minimum, including one laboratory course

All-College Requirements (ACRs)

General education at North Central also includes several all-college requirements, which advance key skills introduced in the core and build upon interdisciplinary themes, collaborative learning, “real-world” application and problem solving from multiple perspectives. The two upper-level ACRs, offered in seminar format and pursued concurrently with the major, help equip you to pursue graduate study or to enter careers in a world in which communication across specializations and the ability to place subjects in multiple contexts will play an increasingly significant role.

All-College Requirements

- » Religion and Ethics
- » Intercultural Seminar
- » Leadership, Ethics and Values Seminar

Your Advisor

First-year students will meet with their academic advisors during their summer orientation session to register for fall classes. You will register with them in the fall for your winter and spring courses, as well as work with them on your four-year academic plan. Your academic advisor will continue to work with you throughout your time at North Central College to help you achieve your academic goals.

Transfer students will also meet with their academic advisors during transfer registration and throughout their time at North Central College.

You can look up your advisor’s name and send an email using your Merlin account. After logging into Merlin, click on the “Students” menu. To learn your advisor’s name, click on “My profile” under the Academic Profile heading. Once you are able to view your profile, your advisor will be listed under “Academic Information.”

To contact your advisor, go to the “Students” menu and find the “Email my Advisor(s)” link under the Communication heading. Selecting this link will allow you to send an email to your advisor.

Academic Technology

As a North Central College student you'll use Merlin, a web-based system where you can view your grades and transcripts, search and register for classes, check your financial aid status and account information, and make online payments. In addition, many faculty members use Blackboard to support student learning through online discussions and posting course-related documents. Blackboard is also used by clubs and organizations, commuter student services and in the residence halls. You'll also be assigned a North Central College email account. You will receive important emails from the College and from your instructors, so check it frequently.

For more information on Merlin, Blackboard and email, check out the Nuts and Bolts chapter.

Academic Integrity

Cheating and Plagiarism Policy

To acquire an education that is complete and authentic, the academic pursuit must be treated with respect. While the College encourages students to tutor and assist each other, you remain responsible for submitting work that is genuinely your own. True learning cannot be accomplished if you use the work of others and claim it as your own or dishonestly prepare coursework. Consequently, the College requires you to adhere to these principles in order to ensure the honesty and integrity of your academic performance.

The North Central College official policy on cheating and plagiarism can be found in several places, including online at northcentralcollege.edu/english/plagiarism-policy, in the "NCC Guide to Writing, Documentation and Information Resources" (pdf) available under "Citing Sources, Research Tips & Tutorials" on the library services website, in the Student Handbook on CardinalNet, and in the College catalog.

Each student is responsible for ensuring academic honesty in their work. As a result, it is not necessary for an instructor to prove your intent in order to determine plagiarism has occurred. If you are unsure about whether your writing has sufficiently acknowledged outside sources, consult with either your course instructor or the Writing Center before submitting your final copy.

Academic Opportunities

A college education is easily associated with attending a set of classes, completing a major and obtaining a diploma that will help enhance graduate school and employment applications. What's harder to imagine is a place where you can practice intellectual and personal leadership, take responsibility for your own learning and fulfill the dreams of a lifetime to:

- » Travel anywhere in the world to pursue a research project arising out of a question you desire to answer. Perhaps you research a topic from your major, your career interests, or your passion for a favorite author, theatrical production or deep-seated commitment to influence public policy.

- » Spend your summer on campus as part of a research team in partnership with one of your favorite professors.
- » Spend a term living in Chicago through the College's Chicago Term program, taking courses, engaging in an internship, or doing independent research.
- » Spend a term or a year abroad, taking courses, pursuing an internship and immersing yourself in a different culture.
- » Present and perform at undergraduate conferences at the local, regional and national levels—or take your work to professional association conferences where you can interact with a wide range of specialists in your proposed field.
- » Prepare an academic profile and portfolio in support of your candidacy for participation in the Fulbright, Oxford or Japanese Exchange and Teaching programs, or comparable programs of extraordinary distinction following graduation.

Faculty and staff will help you translate these dreams into well-developed plans that can be smoothly implemented into your educational plan at North Central. You'll meet many accomplished individuals and develop your talents in ways that might surprise you!

Academic Teams

North Central's academic teams have repeatedly been recognized nationally for connecting academic rigor with competitive success in exciting arenas. Our academic teams travel nationally and worldwide to demonstrate their abilities to bridge theory and practice.

Team members of the Model United Nations have not only competed with other college and university teams across the country, but have frequently visited the country they represent and interacted with its diplomats.

Enactus (formerly Students In Free Enterprise/SIFE) has demonstrated the impact of its product development and project focus to CEOs of national prominence.

Our Forensics Team, frequently in the spotlight for garnering awards at the top tier of colleges and universities, fosters skills of research, interpretation and presentation that make its members competitive not only in team and individual settings, but in future career searches.

Our Mock Trial students have had opportunities to explore multiple roles within courtroom practice well before law school applications are in their mailboxes. Alumni of North Central recall opportunities like these as pivotal in their personal and professional development.

The Intercollegiate Ethics Bowl offers students an opportunity to enter an academic competition that combines excitement and fun with an educationally valuable experience in the areas of practical and professional ethics. Hundreds of students and teams across the United States and Canada compete in 11 competitions each fall. The teams argue and defend their moral assessment of some of the most troubling and complex ethical issues facing society today. Questions address a wide array of topics in business and professional ethics, personal relationships, and social and political affairs.

College Scholars Honors Program

With its motto “Excellence through Community,” the North Central College Scholars Honors Program is a unique, rigorous and prestigious program that brings together high-achieving undergraduates from all academic disciplines. The College Scholars Honors Program complements a student’s major and provides a network of peers, faculty and honors alumni, forming a community of excellence. High school seniors are invited to apply to the College Scholars program based on their academic records before fall term of their first year. Additionally, admission may be granted by the College Scholars Committee at any time after completing at least one term at North Central College and submitting an application and a letter of support from a professor.

College Scholars receive the opportunity to participate in all College Scholars social and cultural events, learn from each other in small discussion-based honors courses and receive additional one-on-one advising. College Scholars may apply to live in the honors living learning community, a residence hall designed to provide community and friendship among high-achieving students. The community also provides study and hangout spaces for honors students who choose to commute or live in another residence hall.

Upon completion of the College Scholars program, seniors are recognized during the Commencement exercise and at the Honors Convocation, receive College Scholar designation on their official transcripts, and attend a reception with their families hosted by the president of the College during graduation week. In addition, College Scholars graduate with an enhanced academic profile and are well prepared for the next step in their careers—whether that is admission to a top graduate or professional program, selection into competitive service programs or entry into the workforce.

Prestigious National Scholarships

The College Honors Program staff encourage student applications for a variety of opportunities at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, such as the Goldwater Scholarship for science and math students, Fulbright Fellowships to conduct research or teach English abroad, and the Marshall and Rhodes scholarships for graduate study in England. Beginning as early as your first year at North Central, high-achieving students who want to pursue these opportunities receive special advising on how to prepare yourself as a strong candidate. Faculty and staff assist you throughout the application process.

Undergraduate Student Research

Biographies of successful North Central graduates often point to defining moments when they discovered the intellectual excitement and sense of accomplishment that come with contributing to a field of knowledge or a profession. When you join the North Central College family, you join a community that fosters independent and collaborative research across all disciplines. Undergraduate research provides opportunities to experience problem solving and project development in ways rarely experienced by undergraduates. Such experiences also allow you to communicate the results of your work at local, national and international conferences and in peer-reviewed publications.

Richter Grants

The competitive Richter Grant program provides students with the financial means to conduct research outside the classroom. Grants up to $5,000 allow students to pursue research projects off campus and often abroad that otherwise would not be feasible. During a typical academic year, North Central undergraduates across academic disciplines are awarded grants totaling up to $40,000. Group Richter projects are also available to students working closely on a faculty member's research project.

Rall Symposium for Undergraduate Research

At the annual Rall Symposium for Undergraduate Research, you'll have the opportunity to share your scholarly work with others at North Central, as well as the community at large. Regardless of your major you'll gain valuable experience presenting your work in a professional forum to people from a variety of different fields and backgrounds.

Student Conference Travel

North Central College undergraduate students have the opportunity to present their research findings in a variety of local, regional and national conferences. You are encouraged to work closely with your faculty advisor to identify an appropriate conference in order to share their research results with a larger audience. When your projects are accepted for conference presentation, the Undergraduate Research office provides travel funding to support your participation.

December Term (D-Term)

One of the most distinctive parts of a North Central experience is December Term (D-Term), a three-week period between Thanksgiving and winter break. You'll come to know the campus and community in ways that your academic schedule might not have allowed during the fall term. Resident students who stay on campus during D-Term pay no extra fees for housing or meals.

During D-Term, professors and staff lead 10 to 12 three-week, three credit courses to locations like England, Germany, France, China, Japan, Morocco, Spain, Italy and Greece. You'll enjoy a range of special opportunities uniquely available outside the three academic terms. Choose from informal learning opportunities on and off campus, undergraduate research, independent study, community service, travel and internships. If you seek a more sustained credited experience, take an intensive on-campus course. Combine these possibilities with the daily events and activities designed especially for this time of year or with employment on campus or in the area. This is an invaluable opportunity for you to fashion a plan to enhance your experience of North Central.

Verandah Experience

A North Central education is much more than attending classes and accumulating credits. Some of the most valuable educational experiences are those spontaneous conversations that arise between students and professors at the Boilerhouse Café, at a Chicago theatre venue or on the steps of a great Chicago landmark. Such experiences enable students and professors to exchange ideas in unique ways not possible within the structure of course schedules and timetables.

Each year North Central College faculty exercise their imaginations by creating and leading Verandah Experiences that will be intellectually and personally stimulating for both students and faculty. Operating on a pass/no pass basis, these informal learning experiences among small groups offer one credit or no-credit options for opportunities that might pique your curiosity, allow you to explore entirely new skills, become acquainted with new places or forge new relationships. A Verandah course might meet in a North Central College classroom, neighboring community, Chicago or out of state. Regardless of where your Verandah is, we promise it will be an educational experience you won't soon forget. Verandah courses are offered year-round. Check your course catalog for current offerings under VER, and look for the brochures and web page updates for details about individual offerings and the faculty who welcome your involvement.

Chicago Term

The Chicago Term is sponsored by the Urban and Suburban Studies program to offer students first-hand opportunities to learn about the city through academic courses, internships and exciting field study and service projects. Students participating in Chicago Term attend classes at the Chicago Temple building, in the heart of downtown Chicago, two days a week. This urban immersion program allows students to work with and learn from knowledgeable and committed faculty members like Dr. Ann Keating, Dr. Lou Corsino and Dr. Steve Macek, while applying their learning through internships and field study experiences. Students can choose to commute from Naperville to Chicago aboard the Metra BNSF line or live in a North Central College apartment in Chicago's South Loop neighborhood.

Dispute Resolution Center

Nearly everything you do in life involves people and potential conflict. Knowing how to effectively manage these interactions will benefit you and those around you, no matter where you are.

North Central College's dispute resolution opportunities will teach you the theories and skills for resolving conflict in the workplace and community. You'll develop those skills through lectures and discussions, negotiation exercises and simulated mediations. You'll practice as a mediator first in the College setting, then in the real world in community groups, courts and businesses.

Dispute resolution is open to students of every major or program but is particularly well suited to those interested in pre-law, business and psychology. You will begin by enrolling in Conflict Resolution LEV 230; then you can pursue additional areas of focus and clinical coursework. Contact the center at 630-637-5157.

You can also:

- » Serve as a peer mediator on campus, working with student clubs and residence halls.
- » Write and research for the student-run newsletter "In the Alternative" for the Illinois State Bar Association.
- » Pursue internship opportunities both on and off campus.
- » Work with the campus Dispute Resolution Center, conducting training and mediating disputes for local courts, area businesses, schools, churches and more.

Teach First

Teach First is North Central's program for first-generation college students pursuing a major in education. The program provides a sense of community along with the mentoring, networking, experiences and resources—including a $1,000 annual scholarship—to help participants achieve their goal of becoming a teacher. North Central College originally launched the Teach First program in 2008; it is now partially funded through a grant from the Dunham Fund of Aurora. To learn more, visit northcentralcollege.edu/teachfirst or contact Julie Carballo, director of first generation programs, at 630-637-5155 or teachfirst@noctrl.edu.

Cardinal First Fridays

Student-Managed Publications

North Central's nationally recognized student publications offer you unique opportunities to report, write, edit, manage, design, illustrate, photograph and communicate. Opportunities include The Chronicle and NCCLinked.com, the campus news sources, the NC Review, a literary magazine with a national readership, and The Kindling, a popular humor publication. Opportunities abound to play a focused role or to explore and integrate a wide range of experiences.

WONC College Radio Station

At WONC-FM 89.1, North Central College's award-winning student-run radio station, you can learn the basics of broadcasting, develop skills in a variety of broadcast roles, and prepare yourself for a future in the broadcast field. WONC has earned a reputation as one of the top college radio stations in the nation. WONC was named the 2015 Best College Radio Station in the Country by the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System. In addition, the station and its student DJs have earned a variety of other prestigious awards.

WONC is always on the air—24 hours a day, 365 days a year. The live format is a blend of alternative, active and classic rock. Newscasts, sportscasts, traffic and weather reports are delivered by students throughout the day. WONC also broadcasts exclusive play-by-play of all North Central College football, men's and women's basketball, baseball and softball games, as well as selected high school contests. At specific times, you'll also hear specialty music shows, as well as educational and public affairs programs. Listen live at wonc.org.

Global Education and Study Abroad

The Center for Global Education oversees all study abroad programs, assists international students and scholars, and coordinates the annual campus-wide international focus. The global education and study abroad staff help ensure every student's education at North Central has international dimensions. Those dimensions can be added in a variety of ways: taking courses, getting to know international students on campus, attending cocurricular events, joining the International Club, studying abroad and/or traveling during vacation breaks.

Study Abroad

If you are interested in studying abroad, you should attend the annual Study Abroad Fair in October, review your options in the current study abroad brochure (available online or in the Center for Global Education), discuss your plans with your academic advisor, and meet with a study abroad advisor in the Center for Global Education. North Central College offers approximately 50 opportunities to study abroad: three fall group programs, 17 exchange opportunities and 24 direct enrollment programs. The College also offers EAST (Educators Abroad Student Teaching), two NAC&U (New American Colleges and Universities Study Abroad) consortium options, SIROL (Student In Residence On Leave) programs and D-Term courses abroad. Rising sophomores can apply for the fall group programs, while all opportunities are open to juniors and seniors with a 2.75 or better GPA. Almost all programs offered by North Central College have a $4,000 program fee; students pay this fee plus North Central College tuition. Since students who study abroad are not charged room and board fees and most of their financial aid is applicable, the total cost for most study abroad programs is little more than the cost of staying on campus. Students are responsible for all travel costs and have to consider the cost of living expenses in their host country. Search for North Central College Study Abroad on Facebook, Instagram and Twitter.

International Involvement at Home

Interested in getting involved in international activities on campus? The Center for Global Education supports the International Club, the Global Perspectives Program, an International Living and Learning Community, and can connect you with courses and/or majors and minors with an international focus. Each year, the campus becomes home to some 90-100 international students from more than 40 different countries. A few ways to get involved with international students include participating in the International Living and Learning Community, International Club, International Roommate Program, or International Buddy Program.

International Living and Learning Community

Living on campus at North Central College is an excellent opportunity to foster intellectual inquiry while promoting academic achievement and engagement outside the classroom. By opting to reside in the International Living and Learning Community, you will be a part of a community that will encourage ambitious goal-setting and provide opportunities to build cross-cultural relationships with students who have shown interest in global perspectives. This community will also promote language learning, explore personal and cultural identities, and help you navigate cultural differences.

International Club

The International Club fosters cross-cultural understanding among domestic and international students and provides a network of friendship and support for our students from abroad. This is one of the largest and most active clubs on campus (Search for NCC Center for Global Education on Facebook.).

International Roommate Program

This is your chance to live with an international student and be part of their U.S. College experience! Applicants must be open-minded and ready to learn about varying cultures, religions and languages. Applicants must have prior international experience or have plans to gain some during their first term at North Central. This might include travel experience, speaking a second language, taking language classes, being involved in a culturally diverse club on campus, or majoring in global studies, international business, East Asian studies, MENA studies, etc.

We want to make sure that the International Roommate Program runs smoothly so we ask for enthusiastic individuals who we can count on. International roommates are required to move in the morning of airport pick-up day, early September, and are asked to participate in the International Roommate Day as part of the international student orientation week. All international roommate applicants will receive correspondence throughout the summer regarding their international student assignment and welcome week schedule.

International Buddy Program

Already have a roommate or live off campus? You can still help out! Each fall the Center for Global Education and the Office of Admission welcome many new international exchange and degree-seeking students. This is your chance to ease the arrival process for our new students and be part of their first days at North Central College. You can help by assisting with airport pick-up day, going with us to go shopping and welcoming new students with a trip to get ice cream.

The Center for Social Impact

The Center for Social Impact is a collaborative hub for cross-campus social impact initiatives that provides students and faculty meaningful opportunities to be changemakers in campus, local and global communities. The Leadership, Ethics and Values program (LEV) is the driving force behind the Center for Social Impact's curricular efforts. Students develop as curious, engaged, ethical and purposeful citizens and leaders as they embark on their chosen pathway to social impact through academics, advocacy, service, civic engagement or social entrepreneurship.

Students for Social Innovation (SSI) is the student congress for social change efforts. Bringing together campus and community partners, SSI seeks to support and mobilize changemakers across disciplines and sectors.

First years can begin their leadership development journey with NCC LEAD, a program designed to combine leadership theory and application through retreats, workshops and events across campus.

First years and sophomores can also apply to be part of the LEV Fellows Program, which offers up to $4,500 in scholarships funds. Rising juniors and seniors may apply to join the Blue Key Honor Society, a national organization built on leadership and service.

Academic Success Resources

The Center for Student Success

The goal of the Center for Student Success (CSS) is to empower students at North Central College to achieve academic success. Based on the philosophy that all students have the ability to succeed and achieve, CSS staff members work with students individually and in groups providing tools and strategies, such as time management, balancing commitments, how to become motivated, note-taking/reading strategies, test-taking strategies and college-level study skills. Additionally, CSS assists new students with the transition to North Central College by providing one-on-one academic counseling sessions to acquire the necessary skills that take a student beyond his/her high school skill set. In addition to the individual academic counseling sessions, CSS provides a variety of academic support services.

Disability support services

The Center for Student Success is committed to providing equal opportunity and meaningful access for all students with physical, psychological, attention- and/or learning-based disabilities in compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act, as amended, and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. Our services include but are not limited to:

- » Academic support
- » Referral to college services
- » Note-takers, scribes, readers and library assistants

- » Exam accommodations
- » Access to accessible classrooms and furniture
- » Assistance with accessing textbooks in alternate formats
- » Referral to the Writing Center
- » Referral to private diagnostic evaluation services
- » Referral to the Department of Rehabilitation Services
- » Information on disability events

Students seeking reasonable accommodations will submit documentation from a qualified professional to have on file in the Center for Student Success before accommodations can begin. Although documentation can be obtained from a variety of sources, it must be from a competent, credentialed authority that can address the functional limitations due to the disability and its impact on an academic setting. Note: The law stipulates that in a post-secondary setting, a student does not qualify for services until he/she has registered with the Center for Student Success and has been certified for eligibility. Accommodations are not retroactive.

In order to receive accommodations in a timely manner, it is important to follow the established procedures set forth by the Center for Student Success. By complying with these procedures, the Center for Student Success is able to fulfill student requests. For more information about these procedures, visit northcentralcollege.edu/undergraduate-studies/center-student-success and select the access and accommodations link found in the text or contact the Center for Student Success at 630-637-5266.

BURST Workshops

Each term, the Center for Student Success hosts a number of workshops that focus on specific skills to help students prepare for the rigors of college-level work. These hour-long workshops use multimodal discussion and activity sessions and are focused on academic strategies to help you succeed in the classroom.

Tutoring

Any student may seek tutoring assistance through the Center for Student Success. Tutors are available by appointment. For more information, contact the Center for Student Success at 630-637-5266.

Academic Advising

All students are assigned an academic advisor. Although you are primarily responsible for developing your academic and cocurricular plan, your advisor will guide you and help you understand College regulations, policies and procedures. You will be meeting with your academic advisor regularly throughout your time at North Central College.

The Writing Center

The Writing Center at North Central College offers thoughtful support for writing, reading and critical thinking across all disciplines. Peer tutors will work with you on any aspect of your writing, from thinking through assignments and developing ideas to drafting and final editing or other revisions.

The Writing Center is for everyone. Tutors work with a wide range of students across all courses who seek a careful reader, a sounding board for ideas and helpful, collaborative support for written projects.

In addition to helping with a current writing project, Writing Center tutors can assist students with any aspect of the writing process:

- » Tutors discuss assignment and devise strategies to help get words on the screen.
- » They consider how effectively a draft meets objectives.
- » Tutors will explain grammar and punctuation.

Writing Center tutors don't simply proofread or "fix" a paper, but students receive empathetic and helpful support through collaborative learning and conversation. Students are encouraged to bring along any assignment sheet and writing attempts.

Friend us on Facebook at North Central College's Writing Center or call 630-637-5351 to make an appointment anytime. Walk-ins are also welcome.

Math Resource Center

The Math Resource Center offers one-on-one and group support for mathematics courses at the 100-level. Faculty and peer tutors assist students in a friendly environment. No appointment is necessary. Drop-ins and questions are welcome.

Math faculty are friendly and approachable, and our peer tutors are all successful mathematics majors and minors who want to help students succeed. Our style of tutoring is a guided exploration, so come with questions and don't simply expect to be given the answer. Our goal is to help students identify where they need help and enable them to be successful in their mathematics courses.

Registering as a student organization has many benefits. Your group will be able to reserve space on campus for meetings and events, you will receive assistance with publicity for your group and its events, and you'll have access to funds from the student activity fee.

Annual Student Involvement Fair

Each fall the Office of Student Involvement hosts a fair where a wide variety of student clubs showcase their activities. Make sure to attend this event so you can meet students already involved in student organizations and get a sense of what clubs you might like to join. Plus, there are usually great treats and prizes provided by local businesses. Don't miss this fun annual event.

Theatre Opportunities

At North Central College you can shine onstage or learn the ropes backstage. The theatre faculty nurture talents and interests in performance, musical theatre, dance, management, dramaturgy, design and technology. Students act, sing, dance and devise. They also direct shows, design sets, lighting and sound, and even produce plays and musicals they've written.

All students are invited to participate in North Central's theatre program. Anyone can audition for a show—first-year students are as likely to land roles as seniors. The faculty thrive on developing talent in anyone who brings a passion, and the program is rich in diversity and openness.

At North Central College, you can major in theatre, musical theatre, or theatrical design and technology. We encourage you to specialize within the theatre major. Concentrate your studies in performance or theatre for social change. Use the independent study options to self-design an area of study, such as playwriting, or major in another area and minor in theatre or dance.

You don't have to be a theatre major to take advantage of all that's offered. In fact, at North Central College you do not even need to be a theatre major to hold a theatre scholarship. We offer a full range of acting, voice, dance and tech classes as well as opportunities to direct/design a full-length production. Our students present a full season of musical and nonmusical performances, actor showcases and one-act plays in our four theatre venues. The theatre department also has an email distribution list students can join and keep up-to-date on recent news. Contact Carin Silkaitis at cdsilkaitis@noctrl.edu for more information.

Your Safety and Responsibility

As a student at North Central College, it is important that you're aware of your rights and responsibilities and the College's expectations for your conduct on and off campus. These are outlined in the Student Handbook, available on the College website at northcentralcollege.edu/handbook. Be sure to familiarize yourself with our college policies, ranging from alcohol and drug use to plagiarism and quiet hours in the residence halls.

Campus Escorts

When you are walking around campus, it is always best to walk with others and travel on well-lit pathways or sidewalks. As a service to the North Central College community, Campus Safety escorts are provided for students walking during the evening hours, persons with medical conditions which prevent them from moving easily around campus, or those traveling to certain off-campus medical facilities. A Campus Safety Officer will meet you and either walk or drive you to your destination. Simply call Campus Safety at 630-637-5911. Officers will arrive in a clearly marked North Central vehicle, wearing a Campus Safety uniform with their name clearly displayed.

Campus Security Reports and Bulletins

The College believes in keeping you informed of any safety issues or concerns. To do so, we publish a Weekly Safety Report. This report is posted in visible locations on campus and is also available on the North Central College Campus Safety web page at northcentralcollege.edu/life-location/campus-safety. If a more serious safety incident occurs, a separate Campus Safety Bulletin is immediately posted in visible locations around campus.

Safety Tips & Information

Campus Safety utilizes Facebook (facebook.com/ncccampusafety) and Twitter (@CampusSafetyNCC) to provide safety tips, weather alerts, traffic warnings, roadway notifications and other useful information to the campus community. Follow Campus Safety on social media to learn about issues that may affect you.

Creating a Campus Free of Sexual Assault, Dating/Domestic Violence, and Stalking

Regardless of the choices one makes, no one deserves to be sexually assaulted. North Central College does not tolerate interpersonal violence of any kind. If you or someone you know has been impacted, we encourage you to seek support and report any act of violence. You can also take advantage of prevention and education programming related to sexual assault, dating/domestic violence and stalking throughout the year. As an incoming student you are also required to complete an online education program about what is and isn't acceptable behavior in our community.

North Central College is a Green Dot campus; we believe we can reduce violence in our community if everyone does their part. Green Dot is a social movement which empowers bystanders to recognize potentially harmful situations and safely respond. As a member of the North Central community the following is expected of you:

Take care of each other. Watch out for your friends and ask them to watch out for you. If you find a friend in a situation that seems “off,” do something about it.

Most importantly—if you see something, say something. It doesn't have to be a grand gesture, but it should be immediate.

While all students are encouraged to report instances of sexual misconduct, many students wish to speak with someone confidentially before making a decision about whether or not to make a formal report. If you or someone you know wishes to explore your options confidentially, you may do so by contacting the Dyson Wellness Center by calling 630-637-5550. When making an appointment, you can either meet with any of the counselors in the Center or specify that you would like to meet with the Health Education Coordinator and Campus Advocate who can be reached at (630) 637-5113. The Campus Advocate can be reached after hours by contacting Campus Safety at (630) 637-5911.

The following options exist for reporting sexual misconduct (sexual violence, sexual assault, sexual exploitation, dating and domestic violence and stalking):

1. Report Confidentially—But Choose Not to Pursue an Investigation or Charges

You can make a confidential report to the Dyson Wellness Center Professional Counselors (630) 637-5550 or Campus Advocate (630) 637-5113 during regular business hours. The Campus Advocate can be contacted after hours through Campus Safety at (630) 637-5911. The Dyson Wellness Center can report to the institution (so that the assault appears in the annual crime statistics) but can do so without disclosing your personal information.

What to Expect

- » Assistance with medical and counseling support
- » The ability to request a room change and possible adjustments to your schedule
- » See the report reflected in the College's annual crime statistics
- » The College may (under rare circumstances) proceed with an investigation and, if appropriate, pursue charges against the perpetrator.

2. Report—Pursue Internal (College) Investigation and Charges

If you want to make a nonconfidential report, you can always start by contacting Campus Safety at 630-637-5911 or the Title IX Coordinator at (630) 637-5340. Student Affairs, Residence Life, or any other faculty or staff member are also able to assist you in making a report.

Reports can also be made using the Sexual Misconduct Online Reporting Form located at titleixreport.northcentralcollege.edu. If the person you contact is not the appropriate person to take the report, he/she will assist you in getting to the right person/place.

What to Expect

- » Assistance with medical and counseling support
- » Assistance, should you wish to involve the police
- » Ability to request a room change, order of no contact and possible adjustments to your schedule
- » See the report reflected in the College's annual crime statistics
- » The College will proceed with an investigation and, where appropriate, disciplinary charges
- » Have the investigation process and any subsequent disciplinary process explained to you by a College employee

3. Report—Pursue Criminal Charges

You can make a report directly to the Naperville Police at 911, in the case of immediate danger, or (630) 420-6666, the non-emergency number for making a police report. If you wish, Campus Safety (630) 637-5911, the Title IX Coordinator (630) 637-5340, or the Campus Advocate (630) 637-5113 will assist you in making a report to the Naperville Police.

What to Expect

- » Referrals to local agencies for support
- » See the report reflected in the College's annual crime statistics (if the assault occurred in the reporting area)
- » The Naperville Police (or the police in the relevant jurisdiction) will conduct an investigation
- » The completed investigation report will be forwarded to the appropriate District Attorney's Office for possible criminal prosecution

4. Report—Pursue BOTH Internal (College) and Criminal Charges

Contact Campus Safety at (630) 637-5911, the Title IX Coordinator at (630) 637-5340, or the Campus Advocate at (630) 637-5113. They can take your report and begin the North Central College process and will assist you in contacting the Naperville Police (or the police in the relevant jurisdiction). The Title IX Coordinator can also be contacted through the Sexual Misconduct Online Reporting Form located at titleixreport.northcentralcollege.edu.

What to Expect

- » Assistance with medical and counseling support
- » Assistance with contacting the police
- » Ability to request a room change, order of no contact and possible adjustments to your schedule
- » See the report reflected in the College's annual crime statistics
- » The College and the police will both proceed with an investigation; parts of this process may occur simultaneously, other parts may occur separately

- » The College will evaluate the evidence to determine if College disciplinary charges are appropriate
- » The appropriate State's Attorney's Office will review the evidence collected in the police investigation to determine if criminal charges are warranted
- » Have the investigation process and any subsequent disciplinary process explained to you by a College employee

For more information about reporting options and resources visit northcentralcollege.edu/titleix.

Emergency Planning

North Central College is engaged in regular planning to prepare for potential emergencies. You can view the College's Emergency Response Plan on bulletin boards around campus and online at cardinalnet.northcentralcollege.edu/employees/omc/emergency-response-plan.

In addition, you'll find a posting of building-specific instructions for fire and severe weather located near light switches or next to the door of most classrooms, offices and residence hall rooms or suites. These postings also contain the street address for each building in the event that you need to make a call for emergency assistance.

Emergency Notification

In the event of an emergency, the College may communicate with you in a number of ways:

- » Text message alerts (see details below to sign up for this service)
- » Notices posted on the College's website, Facebook page or other sites
- » Pop-up messages on campus computers
- » Verbal announcements from our campus outdoor alert system
- » Voicemails or emails
- » In-person messages from faculty or staff members

Please note: The campus outdoor alert/siren system is tested on the first Tuesday of every month at approximately 10 a.m., following the City of Naperville's outdoor warning siren system testing.

Emergency Alert Text Messaging

North Central College uses a mass notification system from Rave Mobile Safety to alert the campus community in the event of emergencies, weather-related closings and other important notifications. Your North Central email address has been automatically added to the system, but you will need to manually add a cell phone number to receive text messages. You may also add additional email addresses and cell phone numbers for family members.

Please add/update your emergency contact information at:

getrave.com/login/northcentralcollege (use your North Central user name and password to login).

For more information and step-by-step instructions, visit cardinalnet.northcentralcollege.edu/employees/rave.

Please note: The Rave emergency alert system will be used solely to communicate emergency notification messages such as severe weather notices, campus closings and/or serious threats to the campus community.

What You Can Do

The American Red Cross recommends that all individuals and families keep a disaster preparedness kit that would sustain them for up to 72 hours in the event that immediate assistance cannot be provided. While the College regularly reviews its safety preparedness and response plans, it is also a good idea for you to consider keeping a few items on hand that may prove useful in an emergency.

The American Red Cross recommends that, at a minimum, you have the basic supplies listed below. Keep supplies in an easy-to-carry emergency preparedness kit that you can use at home or take with you in case you must evacuate.

- » Water—one gallon per person, per day (three-day supply for evacuation)
- » Food—nonperishable, easy-to-prepare items (three-day supply for evacuation)
- » Flashlight
- » Battery-powered or hand-crank radio (NOAA Weather Radio, if possible)
- » Extra batteries
- » First aid kit
- » Medications (seven-day supply) and medical items
- » Multipurpose tool
- » Sanitation and personal hygiene items
- » Copies of personal documents (medication list and pertinent medical information, proof of address, passports, birth certificates, insurance policies)
- » Cell phone with charger
- » Family and emergency contact information
- » Extra cash
- » Emergency blanket

Many of these supplies are readily available at local stores; however, should you desire to purchase a kit already prepared for you, the American Red Cross has a variety of options you can choose from. Visit the American Red Cross Store at redcrossstore.org for more information.

Recreational Sports and Wellness

The College has a variety of facilities to help you maintain a healthy lifestyle. Most facilities are located on the south end of campus in the Athletic Complex. There you'll find the Residence Hall/Recreation Center, Merner Field House and Benedetti-Wehrli Stadium. All three facilities are open to the campus community at varying times. For up-to-date hours of operation, visit the RecSports website at northcentralcollege.edu/recsports.

Residence Hall/Recreation Center

Built with 100,000 square feet of usable recreation space, the Res/Rec is the go-to location for our intramural sports, fitness and informal recreation programs. The facility includes a six-lane, 200-meter track; an elevated walking track; four multipurpose courts that have been lined for volleyball, basketball, badminton and tennis; locker rooms; and fitness center. The fitness center has the best cardiovascular equipment, free weights and circuit machines available.

Merner Field House

Merner Field House has an additional weight room equipped with everything a student needs for free weight training. Whether you're attempting a snatch or a hang clean, the equipment and space available in this facility make it a unique part of the building. The pool is also located in Merner Field House and is available for open swim several hours a week.

RecSports Program

The RecSports program is a prominent part of many student lives on campus. Getting involved with RecSports is easy. The program runs five intramural sports each term and has certified instructors teaching between 10 and 12 classes of yoga, cycling, total body toning, BOSU blast, Core Crunch and Zumba each week. Intramural teams can be created with friends or floor mates, but not having a team is OK, too! The program allows for independent registrations and is a great way to meet new people who are interested in similar activities. The RecSports program also provides equipment rentals. Want to throw a football around but don't have one? No problem. Equipment can be rented on a day-to-day basis at the Res/Rec front desk.

All the programs offered by RecSports are free to current students, faculty and staff. For more information, check northcentralcollege.edu/recsports or email recsports@noctrl.edu for up-to-date information on facility hours, classes and upcoming intramural league play.

Student Leadership Opportunities

Peer Health Educator and Graduate Assistant Positions

Other important members of the Dyson Wellness Center team are the peer health educators and graduate assistants. Full-time students who are enthusiastic about promoting wellness and healthy behaviors among their peers can become peer health educators. These are paid student workers who receive comprehensive training to assist the Dyson Wellness Center staff in providing health and wellness education to their peers.

A graduate assistant supervises the student workers and spearheads programming for the educational workshops. To learn more about these leadership opportunities visit cardinalnet.northcentralcollege.edu/student-life/dyson-wellness-center or call 630-637-5550.

These staff members want to get to know you on an individual level and are a wonderful first point of contact for questions or concerns that may arise during your time living on campus.

Who Are the Staff in Your Residence Hall

Area Hall Director (AHD)

Your Area Hall Director is a professional staff member who lives either in your residence hall or in an adjacent residence hall. AHDs are dedicated to creating a supportive and healthy environment for residents, and are committed to helping you be successful in your academic and personal pursuits. They can connect you with any of the many campus resources that North Central has to offer, and work with residents to build strong communities in the residence halls in order to make sure your transition to campus is a very positive one.

Resident Assistant (RA)

Your RA is a North Central student who lives on your floor or nearby in your building. Your RA will help you and your floor mates get to know one another and establish a sense of community in your new home. Your RA is a great resource if you have questions or need help with a problem. Throughout the year, your RA will also put together a variety of fun and engaging activities for you and other members of your floor or building.

Housing Options and Special Communities

There are a variety of housing options for students at North Central College. Your first year you will be placed in housing designed for new students. Your housing packet and room/roommate assignment will arrive in the mail at your home address during the summer, usually mid- to late July or early August.

After your first year, you'll choose your own building and room. Housing selection for upper-class students is conducted in late April or early May and students who have earned the most academic credit hours are given priority in the housing selection process.

Honors Housing

First-year students who are either already admitted to the College Scholars Honors Program or who are interested in living in an academically focused environment are invited to live in the Honors Housing community in Ward Hall. Students living in this community enjoy the friendships they develop with other academically motivated students and regularly participate in events and activities sponsored by both their resident assistants and the College Scholars program.

Engineering Learning Community

Students majoring in Engineering will also have the opportunity to live in Engineering Living Learning Community located in Res Rec. Students living in this unique community will enjoy being able to live and study with other Engineering majors, while having access to Engineering faculty.

Launch Community

The Launch Community is designed for North Central College upper-class students who want to live together. Through events, lectures and off-campus outings, the Launch Community focuses on applying the life skills they've learned as college students and preparing them to enter the world as informed, involved, principled and productive citizens. Currently the Launch Community is located in Schneller Hall.

Premier Scholars

Students who choose to participate in North Central's summer bridge program, Premier, now have the opportunity to extend their experience through the rest of the academic year by living in the Premier community. Students living in this community will continue to enjoy the friendships they developed during the Premier program throughout their first year residential experience. The Premier community is comprised of one male and one female floor of Premier students living in two of our first-year residence halls. On and between these floors, the hall staff will work to create events and activities for this community that focus on campus resources, involvement and academic success.

Residence Halls

North Central College has a variety of living options for students. Most first-year students live in traditional double- or triple-occupancy rooms; while upper-class students enjoy traditional, suite-style and/or apartment living. In our residence halls with shared bathroom facilities, students live on floors or wings with other students of the same gender. In our buildings with private bathrooms inside the suites or apartments, students share their rooms or apartments with other students of the same gender, but may live on the same floor as students of the opposite gender.

Geiger Hall is coed by floor and houses 75 first-year students in double-occupancy rooms. This three-story building is near Wentz Concert Hall and Madden Theatre.

Rall Hall houses approximately 150 first-year women in double-occupancy, air-conditioned rooms. This three-story building, situated steps from downtown Naperville, is connected to Kaufman Dining Hall.

Seager Hall is home to 150 first-year male students. It is home to Jefferson Lounge, which is open to all students and offers a TV lounge, game room and small computer lab. Seager is located across the street from Kaufman Dining Hall.

Kimmel Hall houses 118 men and women in air-conditioned, double-, triple- and quadruple-occupancy rooms. Located at the north end of campus, each room in Kimmel has its own kitchenette and bathroom. Classroom buildings and Oesterle Library are both close by.

New Hall is North Central's newest residence hall and is home to 229 residents. Close to athletic facilities, Kaufman Dining Hall and downtown Naperville, the building offers suite-style living with single-, double- and quadruple-occupancy options. The common areas of the building feature a large breakout meeting space, public kitchen and central computer lab, in addition to individual floor lounges and laundry rooms.

Patterson Hall is a coed residence hall, housing 180 first-year and upper-class students in air-conditioned, double- and triple-occupancy rooms. Patterson is located near downtown Naperville, the Athletic Complex and Kaufman Dining Hall.

Res/Rec Center houses 392 upper-class men and women in single and double occupancy rooms. Featuring environmentally conscious construction, this building also contains generous lounge space, a competition-sized indoor track, a recreation and fitness center, and an elevated walking and jogging track.

Schneller Hall is a coed residence hall that features 19 bi-level, air-conditioned units that accommodate between three and eight students in single- and double-occupancy rooms. The suites include a living room, kitchen and private bathroom. This building also includes a multipurpose room, central kitchen and lounges. Schneller Hall is home to the Launch Community.

Ward Hall is home to the College Scholars Honors community. Men and women are housed on the same floor. Suites are single gender, but the floor are co-ed. Ward features a large, multipurpose gathering room, a classroom and community kitchens.

About Your Room

Each residence hall room is equipped with an extra-long twin bed, dresser, desk and chair for each resident. In some rooms the dresser is one large piece to be shared among roommates; in other rooms a smaller dresser is provided for each student. Each room also has a space for you to hang your clothes in either a closet or a stand-alone wardrobe. The actual size for an extra-long twin mattress is 80" long, 7" high and 38.5" wide. Keep this in mind when buying bed linens. The average room dimensions for our halls can be found on the College's website at northcentralcollege.edu/housing-dining/live-here.

Telephone and Voicemail

Local telephone service will be set up when you arrive on campus. For long-distance calling, bring a phone card or cell phone. Each room is equipped with one phone jack. For emergency communication purposes, a landline phone is strongly suggested. Given that only one phone is needed per room, communicate with your roommates regarding who will bring the phone. Calls made from your residence hall room to other phones on campus or calls within the 630 area code are free of charge. For voice messages, each resident will receive an individualized voicemail box that can be accessed from any phone on or off campus. Your voicemail messages are also forwarded to your North Central College email account so you may listen to them via a computer or smartphone.

Cable TV

Cable TV access is ready in your room when you arrive and basic cable is provided through WOW! Cable free of charge. There is only one cable jack per room, so you may want to coordinate with your roommate on who will be bringing the TV. TVs must be digital cable-ready. Please remember to bring a coaxial cable to connect your TV to the cable jack.

Internet

All campus buildings (including residence hall rooms and lounges) are equipped with wireless internet. Your wireless device must support 802.1x authentication in order to connect to the wireless network. Each residence hall room is also hard-wired for one Ethernet network connection per student. For more information about technology, visit the Nuts and Bolts chapter.

Room Maintenance

Should something become damaged or any issue arise with the day-to-day functioning of a residence hall room, our friendly maintenance staff is more than happy to address any concern in a timely fashion. Students must simply report any issue with their room to their RA or AHD and Residence Life staff will contact maintenance to promptly resolve the issue.

Housing Policies

Vacation Periods

Residence halls close several times a year during school vacations. If you're a resident student, you'll be required to leave campus housing during the following periods:

Thanksgiving Break: Wednesday of fall term after final exams to Sunday after Thanksgiving

Winter Break: Last day of D-Term final exams to Sunday before winter term

Spring Break: Wednesday of winter term after final exams to Sunday before spring term

Summer Break: Wednesday of spring term after final exams (except graduating seniors)

When residence halls are closed for break periods, the exterior locks will be changed and/or card access will be deactivated. For mid-year breaks, students are not required to move belongings out of their rooms. They should plan to take everything needed during the break period upon checkout.

December Term (D-Term) Housing

The three weeks after the Thanksgiving holiday and before winter break are referred to as D-Term at North Central. If you live on campus, you are invited to stay on campus during this period at no extra charge for housing or meals. During D-Term, you can take advantage of a condensed class (billed to your winter tuition), a unique Verandah course, a short-term study abroad course or community service trip experience. The Offices of Student Involvement, Residence Life, and the RecSports program also host a variety of fun social and recreational events during D-Term for those remaining on campus.

Contract Liquidation

Room and board agreements are valid for one full academic year (September to June). Room and board fees are billed each term; however, the room and board agreement is for fall, winter and spring terms. If you decide to withdraw from the College or move off campus, you will need to cancel your housing with the Office of Residence Life. We also ask that you notify your roommate(s) if you decide to move out of your residence hall room. A $500 liquidation fee is charged for early termination of your room and board agreement. It is also important to note that financial aid packages can be affected when a student chooses to live off campus. We would encourage you to check with the Financial Aid office at finaid@noctrl.edu or 630-637-5600 before making a final decision to live off campus.

First-, Second- and Third-Year Housing Requirement

Research shows college students connect better to campus, experience greater academic success and are more likely to continue on to graduation if they live on campus. It is College policy that first- and second-year students not living with their families are required to live in campus housing. If you need to request an exception to this policy, you must submit an appeal in writing to the Office of Residence Life.

Commuter Student Services (CSS)

If you commute from home or live off campus, you're not alone. Students who commute make up almost half the undergraduate student population. North Central provides services and programs to help increase your connection to campus through CSS, a subdivision of the Office of Student Involvement.

Commuter Assistants (CAs)

CAs are undergraduate students who have experience as commuters themselves. Though their primary focus is on assisting new transfer commuter students with transitioning to North Central, they provide support for all commuter students, including mentorship, programming and other resources. Every term, the CAs host Commuter Social Luncheons and Commuter Appreciation Day, when you can enjoy free food and prizes while socializing with other commuter students.

You can often find the CAs in the Rolland Center Boilerhouse Café, which is a great hub for commuters to hang out, study or grab a bite to eat. The Boilerhouse has three floors with seating, food and coffee for purchase on the main floor, a computer lab on the upper level, and a flat screen TV, board games, and community refrigerator and microwave on the lower level.

To contact CSS, email icommute@noctrl.edu, call 630-637-5400, follow on Twitter @NCCiCommute, or like NCC Commuter Student Services on Facebook.

NUTS AND BOLTS

Read this chapter carefully to make sure you understand the “business” end of your college experience. This section will introduce you to the many offices that will assist you with questions from admission and financial aid to campus dining and student employment.

NUTS AND BOLTS

Your Student ID

All students are required to have a student ID card. Student ID cards are available in the Department of Campus Safety on the lower level of New Hall, Monday through Friday, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. In order to receive your card, you'll need a photo ID (driver's license, passport, state ID, etc.). Your ID card will allow you to access certain buildings on campus, check out books and other materials from the College library, print across campus and gain access to some campus events. Your ID also will serve as your meal card.

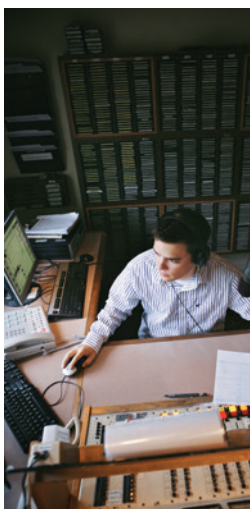

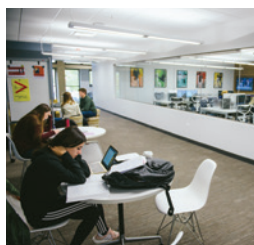

Replacement ID cards

A lost/replacement ID costs $10 and can be paid by cash, check or applied to your student account in the Department of Campus Safety Office in New Hall.

For an ID card that is no longer functioning, you'll need to bring it to the Department of Campus Safety to have a new card printed.

GET

GET (<https://get.cbord.com/ncc/full/login.php>) provides valuable information about your account balances and spending history. You also can use GET to add value to your card using a credit card. If you lose your ID card, you can deactivate your account using GET.

On-Campus Dining

At North Central College you'll have a variety of dining options across campus to accommodate your tastes and lifestyle. We offer an all-you-care-to-eat dining hall (Kaufman) with a four-week rotating menu, a made-to-order fast food-style restaurant (The Cage), a "We proudly serve" Starbucks café and convenience store (Rolland Center Boilerhouse Café), café bakery Au Bon Pain (Science Center) and Freshëns (Res/Rec Center). Campus dining services are under the management of Chartwells, the college and university dining service division of Compass Group, USA.

Where to Eat

Kaufman Dining Hall

221 S. Brainard Street

North Central's main dining facility is Kaufman Dining Hall. It's the place to "see and be seen" since many students eat most of their meals there. If you're a big eater or you desire a great deal of variety, Kaufman is the place for you. All meals at Kaufman are all you can eat.

The Cage

Harold and Eva White Activities Center

325 E. Benton Avenue

The Cage features a short-order grill, Papa John's Pizza and Moe's Southwest Grill. In addition, grab-and-go items, including fruit, salads and yogurt make The Cage a popular dining location for both resident and commuter students.

Rolland Center Boilerhouse Café

29 N. Loomis Street

The Rolland Center Boilerhouse Café not only provides that jolt of morning coffee, it also houses a convenience store. The store offers grab-and-go salads and sandwiches, a variety of bottled beverages, candy bars, canned soups, cereal, chips and much more. The Boilerhouse Café proudly serves Starbucks coffee.

Au Bon Pain

Science Center

131 S. Loomis Street

Au Bon Pain café bakery is a great place to grab coffee on the go, a morning pastry, or stop in for a full lunch menu that includes salads, soups, sandwiches, desserts and more.

Freshëns

Residence Hall/Recreation Center

440 S. Brainard Street

Freshëns is the perfect place to grab a smoothie on your way to class or after your workout. With an array of healthy options, choose from salads, bowls, mac 'n' cheese and more.

Hours of Service

Hours of service are subject to change. Please refer to dineoncampus.com for up-to-date information.

Meal Swipes

Each residential meal plan consists of a combination of Meals and Bonus Bucks. Meals or “swipes” can be used at Kaufman Dining Hall, The Cage, Freshens or Au Bon Pain whenever they are open.

Bonus Bucks vs. Flex Dollars

Both Bonus Bucks and Flex Dollars are similar to a debit account and are linked to your student ID. When you buy items with your ID, the price is deducted from your account. Bonus Bucks are included with meal plans and can only be used at Chartwells locations. They are good for the academic year and roll over from term to term. Bonus Bucks expire at the end of the academic year. If you no longer reside in campus housing and are not on a meal plan, Bonus Bucks balances are forfeited. You can add Flex Dollars all year at the Business Office on the third floor of Old Main or through GET. There is no minimum or maximum amount for when adding Flex Dollars to your card, which you can use at the Boilerhouse, The Cage, Freshens, Au Bon Pain and the Bookstore, and for laundry and vending machines across campus.

Meal plans

All students living on campus are required to purchase a North Central College meal plan. Many students living in the apartments or commuting from off campus choose to enroll in a meal plan as well. Below you'll find a description of each of the available meal plans. All residential plans cost the same amount; however, each plan is divided up differently. To choose a plan you'll need to make some choices about where you think you'll eat most of your meals. You can alter your meal plan during the first week of each term at the front desk of Kaufman Dining Hall.

Commuter Meal Plan

These plans were created for the commuting students, faculty and staff of North Central College. If you're looking for convenience, flexibility and savings, these plans are for you! There are six different commuter plans to choose from, allowing you to dine at any of our locations on campus. You can choose from hot breakfast, continental breakfast, hot lunch, soup and sandwiches or dinner. Use your meals throughout the entire academic year including D-Term.

Residential Student Meal Plans

190 Meal Plan

Popular with international students, first years and athletes, this plan is for the resident who prefers to dine at Kaufman three times per day. With this plan you'll get 190 meal swipes and $101 Bonus Bucks per term.

130 Meal Plan

If you think you'll eat about two meals at Kaufman each day, this plan is for you. With 130 meal swipes and $148 Bonus Bucks per term, this plan tends to work for students who are off campus most weekends or who simply desire greater dining flexibility.

70 Meal Plan

This plan includes 70 meal swipes and $235 Bonus Bucks per term. If you think you'll only eat about one meal per day at Kaufman, this plan may be a perfect fit. It's designed for the student who needs that daily morning coffee at the Boilerhouse and/or late-night snack at The Cage, Freshens or Au Bon Pain.

Special dietary needs

North Central College food services is committed to providing the highest quality service for all students. We make every attempt possible to meet your special dietary needs. If you have food allergies or require other special dietary considerations, please contact the director of dining services, at 630-637-5645 to arrange a time to meet to discuss your specific needs.

Vending options with card access

Through the ManageMyID program students can add value to their ID cards and use them at soda and vending locations. Not only do the new machines offer healthier food options, but they are also Energy Star compliant because of energy efficiency features such as LED and occupancy sensor lighting. Students may add money to an ID card by going to the Business Office located on the third floor of Old Main, or by visiting the student page at cardinalnet.northcentralcollege.edu.

School Closures

When the College is faced with a forecast for harsh winter weather or severe spring/summer weather, several procedures will be followed to communicate with the campus community. The College's status (open, delayed open, evening classes canceled, day classes canceled, College closed) may be communicated in the following ways:

- » Website. A "Campus Status" message will be posted on the homepage.
- » Text alert. Information may be sent to registered student, faculty and staff cell phone numbers. Members of the campus community are encouraged to update their cell phone information to ensure receipt of emergency communications. Students can maintain their cell phone information using the Rave website at getrave.com/login/northcentralcollege.
- » Email. A broadcast email message may be distributed to all @noctrl.edu email accounts regarding the College's status.
- » Social Media. Information may be posted to the College's official Facebook (facebook.com/NorthCentralCollege) and Twitter (@northcentralcol) pages.
- » WONC-FM 89.1. The College's radio station may broadcast closing information via the radio at FM 89.1 and via web stream at wonc.org.

Additional Information Sources

- » Emergency Closing Center. The College's status may be posted to the Emergency Closing Center at emergencyclosingcenter.com. Visit the site and search for "North Central College."
- » Voicemail. An all-campus broadcast voicemail may be sent to all campus telephone numbers and a message may be posted at the main College telephone number: 630-637-5100.

These same communication procedures will be followed if a non-weather incident necessitates closing or delaying the opening of the College.

Winter Weather

While closures, delays or cancellations can occur at any time, winter weather forecasts typically provide more lead time. Therefore, the College will follow a revised winter weather timeline for communicating delays, cancellations and closures. North Central College will communicate winter weather decisions no later than 6 a.m. for day classes and no later than 3 p.m. for evening classes.

Computing on Campus

Your North Central computer accounts

In most cases, your username is your first initial, middle initial, full last name. Be sure to verify your actual username with the information you were sent when you were accepted to North Central. All new North Central accounts are created with a temporary password.

Your default temporary password is NCC followed by your 7-digit ID number, e.g., NCC0000000 (password is case sensitive).

Your North Central username and password will be used to access all of the major systems on campus, including campus computers, email, Merlin, Blackboard, North Central's wireless network, North Central Box and more.

Change your password

All accounts are created with a temporary password that only allows you a limited number of logins before the account becomes locked. Upon receiving your username and initial password information, you should first login to the College's password maintenance tool to change your password away from the temporary to one of your choosing.

- » Go to <https://password.northcentralcollege.edu>.
- » Enter your North Central username.
- » Enter your initial North Central password (NCC + 7-digit ID number - example: NCC0000000).
- » Click "Sign In."
- » If this is your first time logging in, you will be presented with a screen to configure your security questions. You will need to select and answer four security questions. Please select questions to which you will remember the answers.
- » After your security questions have been sufficiently answered, click "Save Answers." You should receive a screen confirming that the security answers have been saved. Click "Continue."

- » Select a new password that meets the requirements presented on the “Change NCC Password” screen. As you type your password in the “New Password” field, it will be evaluated for strength. Please choose a password that is rated as “Strong.” Retype the password in the “Confirm Password” box and click the “Change Password” button.
- » A box will appear indicating that your password is being changed. Please do not close out of your browser during this process.

Password requirements

Passwords expire every 120 days. New passwords must meet these requirements:

- » A minimum of eight (8) characters
- » Contain at least one number
- » Must be different than any of your previous passwords
- » Must not contain your name or username
- » Should not contain the characters “&” or “<”

Network space

Network space is provided to all students so they can effectively manage their educational activities. This space is active as long as you are continuously enrolled at North Central College; summers do not count as an enrollment term.

Technology for Your Residence Hall Room

In addition to wireless network connectivity, every College-owned residence hall at North Central College has a full 100 MB-wired ethernet connection.

To get a wired network connection in your residence hall room, you'll need:

- » Computer that has one of the operating systems listed below
- » Network Interface Card (NIC) installed in your computer
- » Ethernet cable
- » Updated version of virus protection

Personal computer specifications

While there are no specific computer configuration requirements, our recommendations for any computer being connected to the North Central network can be found below. Older operating systems may no longer be compatible with some of the technologies we use on campus.

Operating System

- » Windows 10, Windows 8, Windows 7
- » MAC OS 10.13, 10.12, 10.11

Software

- » A current version of Microsoft Office or a compatible productivity suite such as Libre Office
- » A current version of an internet browser such as Mozilla Firefox, Google Chrome, Safari or Edge
- » An updated version of virus protection

Network & Accessories

- » Ethernet cable, we recommend a 25-ft. length
- » 802.11b/g/n wireless card (laptops)
- » USB storage (thumb drive, jump drive, flash drive) recommended

If considering bringing a different operating system to connect to the campus network, please contact ITS.

Ethernet cables

You'll need an Ethernet cable to connect your personal computer in your room to the campus network. If you need a network cable, you can purchase cables in various lengths at computer or electronics stores; ask for an "ethernet" or "Cat5" cable. We suggest either a 14-ft. or 25-ft. length.

Do I have to own a computer?

The College does not require students to own a computer. There are computers available to students in all residence halls, Carnegie Hall, Oesterle Library, the Stadium, the Boilerhouse, and several departmental/specialty labs. About 98 percent of students living in residence halls bring a computer with them to campus.

Do I need to have a printer?

Printing is available in all residence halls and at several other computer labs on campus.

Do I need virus protection?

Absolutely. All students must install and use a virus program, such as Sophos, Intel Security (McAfee), AVG or Norton Anti-Virus, all of which should be updated regularly with the latest virus definitions.

Computers that are infected with a virus are disconnected from the network and not granted network access until the problem is resolved. Visit the ITS website (its.noctrl.edu) to download Sophos.

Cable TV in residence halls

As part of your on-campus housing accommodations, basic cable television service is waiting for you in your room when you arrive. All you need is a digital cable-ready TV with a QAM tuner. Most TVs sold after 2006 come with a digital tuner; however, you may want to verify it is a QAM tuner. You also need to bring a standard coaxial (or coax) cable to connect your TV to the wall outlet. You can purchase the standard coax cable at any local department or electronics store. Prices for coax cable vary depending on the length of the cable.

North Central special events and messages

When you want to find out what is happening on campus, turn to TV Channel 70 for North Central Happenings, which broadcasts information on daily North Central activities and other information relating specifically to North Central College students.

Handicapped or disabled parking spaces are provided in College parking lots in accordance with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). If you park in one of these spaces, you must display an official disabled parking permit issued through the State of Illinois. North Central College cannot issue handicapped parking placards, nor can we authorize parking in those parking spaces. We may only honor official state-issued, handicapped parking placards/plates.

Daily and visitor permits

If you drive to campus on an occasional basis, the College offers temporary permits. These permits are needed to park vehicles on campus. All students parking on campus must display a valid permit. Currently enrolled students are not considered visitors.

You may request a total of seven days of temporary parking each term from the office of Campus Safety. Permits are available at the cost of $5 per day.

If you have a visitor on campus, you can pick up a temporary permit at Campus Safety. The current student and visitor must be present together to obtain the permit. All temporary permit hang tags must be displayed under the rearview mirror with the front side of the permit visible from outside the front windshield. Visitor permits are free of charge.

North Central College may revoke or refuse to issue a parking permit without prior notice. You must settle all outstanding parking violations or penalties before a new parking permit will be issued or renewed. Parking permits may be revoked for nonpayment of parking fines.

Parking regulations

Parking spaces: All campus parking lots have designated parking spaces. Parking spaces are specifically striped in yellow. A legal parking space is defined to be a space between two yellow painted lines.

Parking on the street: Parking in the neighborhood and on city streets adjacent to the College is restricted to four-hour parking only. Parking overnight on any Naperville street is strictly prohibited. Street parking is regulated by the City of Naperville. The College encourages students to abide by posted signs advising the City's parking regulations. No permits are needed for street parking.

Fire lanes and handicapped spaces: No parking is permitted in fire lanes. Cars parked in handicapped-designated spaces must have appropriate legal permits displayed. Striped areas adjacent to posted handicapped spaces ARE considered to be part of the handicapped space and will be enforced as such.

Alternative Transportation

Free shuttle

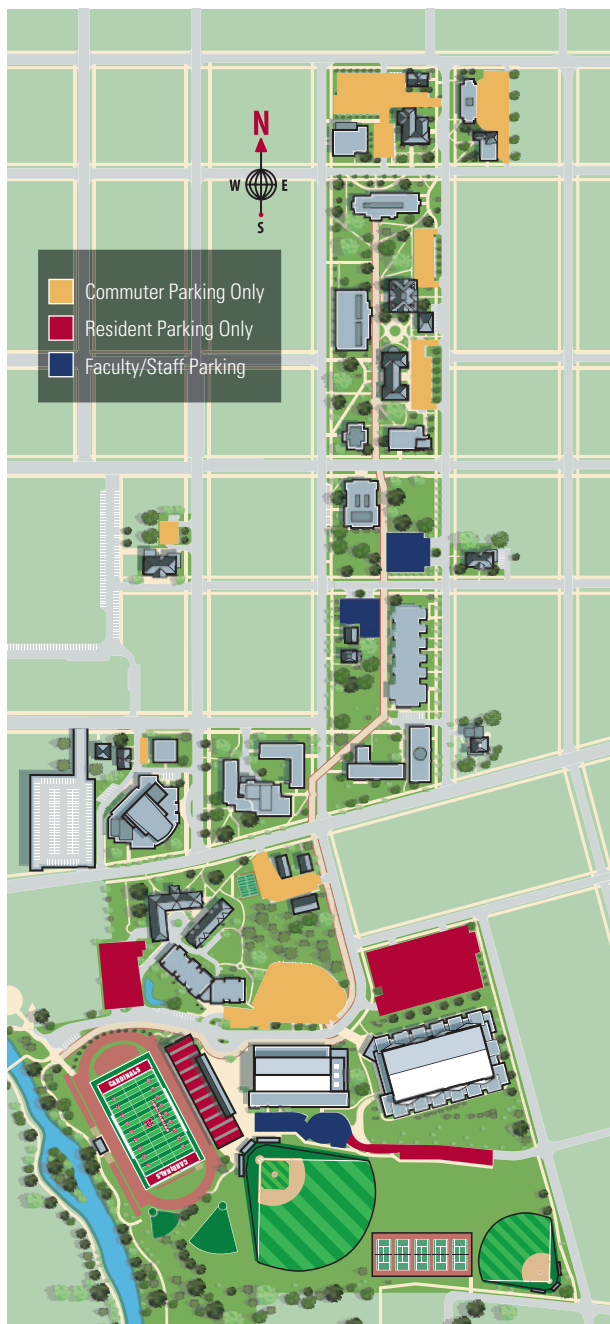

A free shuttle service, available to any student with a current North Central College ID, provides easy access to our remote parking lot and the surrounding community. The shuttle will pick up and drop off students at Wentz Concert Hall. The route takes you to locations in Naperville and Aurora. Find the most up-to-date schedule at northcentralcollege.edu/shuttle or pick up a shuttle schedule card at the Campus Safety office.

Cardinal Red Bike Program

Don't have a bike? Don't want to drive? Not a problem! Cardinal Red Bikes are available to students on a term-by-term loan basis. The Red Bike Shop will handle all maintenance. You can use a Cardinal Red Bike for an entire term free of charge. The Cardinal Red Bike loan program provides a Cardinal red cruiser bike and cable lock for your personal use for the entire fall and/or spring term, on and off campus.

The Cardinal Red Bike loan program is operated through the Department of Campus Safety. For more information, call our office (non-emergency) at 630-637-5826 or visit northcentralcollege.edu/redbike.

You can also bring your own bike from home and take advantage of the numerous bike racks located on campus. We recommend everyone register their bike with Campus Safety. To register your bike visit cardinalnet.northcentralcollege.edu/student-life/personal-bikes.

See the full map with detailed lot information at cardinalnet.northcentralcollege.edu/student-life/where-park

Zipcar (car-sharing program)

If you have decided to forgo the hassles associated with having a car on campus, we have a solution for you.

Since 2008, North Central College has housed two Zipcar vehicles. This is a car-sharing program for drivers over age 18 that allows you to rent a car by the hour. Zipcar offers special rates for North Central College students and employees. Gas, insurance and 180 miles per day are included in the rental fees. Zipcar allows you to reserve a car online or on your mobile phone. All you need to do is join at zipcar.com/ncc and you're on your way.

If you have any questions about the Zipcar program or would like help joining, contact the Parking and Transportation Services Coordinator at 630-637-5664.

Trains and buses

As part of our commitment to a “green” world, we always encourage our faculty, staff and students to use public transportation.

Metra is the commuter rail service that carries travelers as far west as Aurora and east to downtown Chicago on the Burlington Northern Santa Fe (BNSF) Railway. The local station is just two blocks north of campus and a 45-minute train ride will put you in the middle of one of the world's greatest cities. By taking the train, you can avoid traffic on the tollway, finding and paying for parking downtown and adding to carbon emissions all at once.

Amtrak has four routes that pick up and drop off passengers at the Naperville train station—California Zephyr, Carl Sandburg, Illinois Zephyr and Southwest Chief. Just two blocks from campus, you can step on a train and ride it to Quincy, IL, Los Angeles or any of the stops Amtrak makes in between.

To get around greater Naperville and the surrounding suburbs, you can ride Pace buses. For about $1.75, you go east and west between the Naperville BNSF Metra station and the Fox Valley Mall on the 530 bus route or north and south between Naperville BNSF Metra station and the downtown Wheaton Metra station on the 714 bus route.

Financial Aid

We understand that the financial costs of a college education may seem overwhelming; yet, these costs are an important investment in your future. The lifetime value of your experiences and education at North Central will far outweigh the expense. We are committed to helping you understand the various financial aid options available to you. Financial aid is available to undergraduate and graduate students, as well as international students. Based on your eligibility, you may qualify for a combination of grants, loans, work study employment and scholarships.

We want you to receive every possible benefit when it comes to financial aid, and are committed to working with you. The best strategy in applying for aid is to research all opportunities and apply early. You'll need to reapply each year by completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) at fafsa.ed.gov and entering North Central's school code, 001734.

As a continuing student, you will receive an electronic copy of your award letter. It is highly recommended that you complete your FAFSA before February 1 each year. If your financial aid file is complete (the FAFSA as well as any requested supporting documents) by March 1, you should receive an award announcement in your North Central email around May 1. Once you receive your award announcement email, you'll be able to view and accept or reject your financial aid awards in Merlin through your "financial aid checklist."

Types of Financial Aid

Scholarships

You've worked hard in school—both in and out of the classroom—and we want to reward you for your achievements. Merit-based scholarships are awarded by Admission during the application review process and are based on your coursework, your grade-point average (GPA) and your ACT or SAT test scores. Academic scholarships are renewable provided you maintain full-time enrollment and make satisfactory academic progress. Your achievements and special talents in other academic and activity areas, like education and fine arts, could result in additional scholarship opportunities.

Grants

Grant assistance can help make North Central affordable for you. Grants are based on financial need as determined by the FAFSA. Grants do not have to be repaid and may come from state, federal or our own resources.

Loans and employment

Loans and work are considered "self-help" forms of financial aid and can be an important option for you to consider. Loans may come from sources such as the government, banks or private organizations and must be paid back. Employment could be an on- or off-campus opportunity. With downtown Naperville just two blocks from campus and shopping malls close by, you may find a part-time job easier to manage than you think.

Federal Work Study

If you qualify for Federal Work Study, it will be listed with your other awards in Merlin. Federal Work Study means a portion of a student's salary is covered by funds given to us by the federal government. You must demonstrate financial need in order to qualify. Being offered Federal Work Study gives you the ability to work on campus, but does not guarantee employment. Work study funds are not credited to your student account, but are earned and provided through a paycheck. If you are interested in working on or off campus, an assortment of student employment opportunities can be accessed through North Central's Human Resources and Career Development Offices.

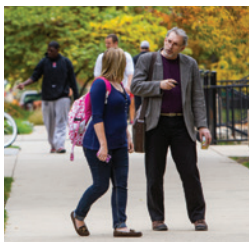

For additional information about the financial aid process, visit the financial aid website at northcentralcollege.edu/financial-aid or view your "financial aid checklist" in Merlin.

Tuition and General Fees

Your estimated tuition and fee charges are billed four to six weeks prior to the beginning of each term based on your schedule as reported by the Registrar, your room and board charges (if applicable) as reported by Residence Life, and your estimated financial aid as reported by the Financial Aid office. All bills are electronic and can be accessed via your Merlin account. No paper bills are mailed out unless requested each term. Payment is due by the published payment due date as indicated on the online statement. If payment extension is needed, students can sign a Student Promissory Note to defer payment to the end of the term or sign up for the automatic monthly payment plan to spread tuition payments over the term.

North Central College accepts cash, check and debit/credit card payments in person at the Business Office. Payments by check can also be mailed to the Business Office. Visa, Mastercard, Discover, American Express and e-check payments can also be made online through Merlin. A 2.5 percent nonrefundable service fee is assessed on debit/credit card payments.

Those who do not wish to incur the fee have several alternatives, including paying by electronic check, traditional check or cash. The credit card payment service fee is nonrefundable, even in cases when tuition is fully or partially refunded due to withdrawal from classes or other reasons. For those who choose to pay by credit card and incur the service fee, two separate charges will appear on their credit card statements: one showing the tuition and fee charges from North Central College, and another showing the 2.5 percent service fee charged by Official Payments, the College's electronic payments processing partner (the service fee rate is subject to change by Official Payments in the future). For those choosing to pay tuition balances via the monthly payment plan option and paying by credit card, a 2.5 percent service fee is charged by Official Payments. Users of this option will see two separate charges on their credit card statements: one showing the tuition and fee charges from North Central College, and another showing the 2.5 percent service fee charged by NBS (the service fee rate is subject to change in the future). Please contact the Business Office if you have any questions.

Tuition

For billing purposes, there are several categories in which students are placed:

Full-time students are those registered for 8 to 12 credit hours for the term. A fixed tuition rate is charged to full-time students. The current rate of tuition is available at the North Central College website at northcentralcollege.edu/tuition to locate the most up-to-date tuition and fees.

Part-time students are those registered for less than 8 credit hours for the term. These students are charged per credit hour at the degree rate.

Overload credit hours (more than 12 credit hours) are charged at the overload credit hour rate.

Graduate students are those enrolled in the graduate program. These students are charged per credit hour at the graduate student rate.

Tuition deposits

A nonrefundable tuition deposit of $100 is required of all students. Deposit payments can be made with the Admission Office and will show up on the student's account as a credit that will go toward their first term charges.

Room charges

Students living in College-operated residence halls are considered resident students. All resident students are billed each term for housing. The specific fees for each type of on-campus housing are available at northcentralcollege.edu/tuition.

Board charges

All resident students living in College residence halls or houses are required to purchase a meal plan. There are several options available: 190 meals, 130 meals or 70 meals per term at Kaufman Dining Hall, The Cage, Au Bon Pain and Freshens. All meal plans also include Bonus Bucks for use at The Cage, the Boilerhouse, Au Bon Pain and Freshens. Meal plans automatically default to the 130-meal plan; students have the option to change their meal plan at Kaufman Dining Hall through the first week of the term.

Room deposits

A room damage deposit of $100 is required of all resident students. Deposit payments can be made with the Admission Office. When students move out of their hall, room damage fees will be deducted from the deposit (if applicable) and any remaining balance is refunded to the student in the form of a check. Room deposits will NOT show as a credit on the student's account as the tuition deposit does. The deposit should be made: a) within 30 days of acceptance by the College or b) prior to the room assignment process.

Miscellaneous charges

- » A student activity fee is assessed to ALL full-time students. This fee is used to engage student interests and cultivate positive experiences by funding more than 70 student organizations on campus.
- » Lab fees are assessed for courses that require special equipment and/or supplies.
- » Course fees are assessed for private lessons such as music lessons.
- » A late payment fee is assessed to all unpaid account balances after the 8th calendar day of the term.

In addition to the fees mentioned in this book, there are other fees that may apply to you. You can see a comprehensive list of tuition and fees on the website at northcentralcollege.edu/tuition.

Refund Policies

Tuition

A student who officially withdraws from the College or from one or more courses may receive a full or partial refund (credit) according to the following schedule computed from the first official day of the academic fall, winter or spring term (which, in general, is the first weekday of the term in which classes are held).

NOTE: The summer term refund schedule differs from the fall, winter and spring term refund schedule.

During the first eight calendar days - 100%

Ninth through 14th calendar day - 90%

15th through 21st calendar day - 50%

After the 21st calendar day - 0%

The date of withdrawal is established by the student's completion of all official steps for withdrawal and will be based on the date that the Registrar's office records the withdrawal. If the student withdraws from the College or any course(s) at any time without having completed the official steps, no refund (credit) will be made. Not attending class DOES NOT withdraw students from their registration. Requests for exception to this policy must be made in writing, using the General Petition Form available in the Registrar's office. Exceptions may be granted for reasons such as an institutional error, documented medical condition, death of a family member or other circumstances clearly beyond the student's control, except for employment reasons. In all cases, a complete review of any possible means of completing the course(s) must be explored prior to submitting the petition. Granted petitions may be assessed a $50 processing fee.

Room and board

Your room and board agreement is for one full academic year (September-June).

If you decide to withdraw from the College or move off campus, you'll need to cancel your housing with the Office of Residence Life by completing a contract release form. Granting of the release is not automatic and refunds (credits) will be determined in accordance with the agreement. All students should read and understand the Room and Board Agreement before signing. A $500 liquidation fee is charged for early termination of your room and board agreement.

Business Office Services

The Business Office offers the following additional services to registered students:

- » Honor Loans for up to $20 may be secured. See the Business Office for an application (student ID is required). Loans must be repaid within 14 days. The Honor Loan Fund is made possible through the generosity of Mr. Belford Howard and Mr. Ward Shiffler, friends of North Central College.
- » Personal checks for up to $20/day may be cashed at the Business Office (a student ID is required). No third-party checks may be cashed.
- » Promissory Notes and Account Authorization forms are available to complete as applicable.
- » Commuter meal plans are available for purchase for non-resident students.

Office of the Registrar

The Office of the Registrar, located on the third floor of Old Main, is responsible for student records and registration. Contact this office if you have questions about adding or dropping a course; want to declare your major or minor; need to know the deadlines to register for an internship, independent study or directed study; want to transfer coursework from another institution; are applying for graduation; or have questions about academic policies. More information is available online at northcentralcollege.edu/registrar.

ATMs and Banking

On-campus ATM locations

The College has two ATMs on campus for your convenience. Located on the main level of the Harold and Eva White Activities Center and the main level of Residence/Recreation Center, the BMO Harris Bank ATM can be utilized with any debit card for a nominal fee. Several ATMs associated with local banks are located within walking distance of campus.

Banking

While the College is unaffiliated with a bank for student banking, there are many banks within walking distance of campus. Throughout the year, many of these banks will come to campus to assist you should you wish to set up a local student banking account.

Student Employment and On-Campus Jobs

If you plan to work during your time at North Central, an on-campus job might be an option for you. Many offices on campus hire student employees throughout the year. An on-campus job provides a valuable learning experience in many disciplines and fields.

If you have a specific idea of where you'd like to work on campus, one option is to reach out to that department or office to ask if they are hiring. Many students find this personal outreach to be the most successful way of finding on-campus employment.

How to find student employment

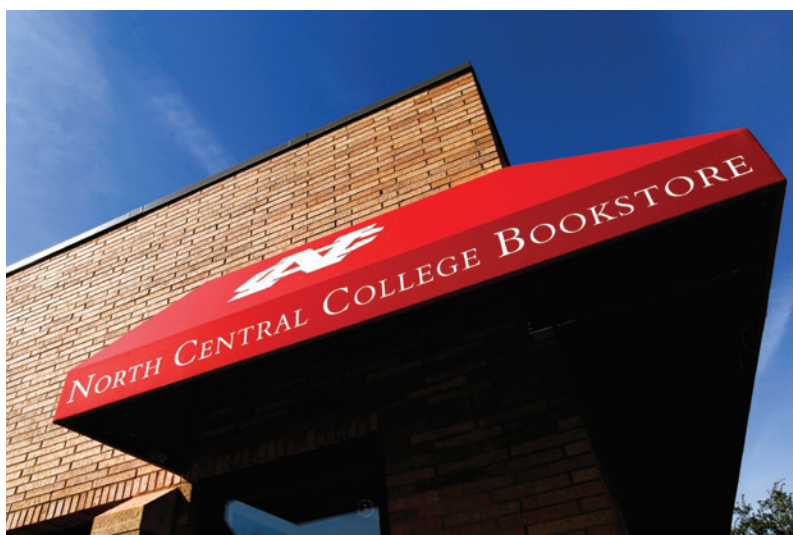

Students are encouraged to speak with a department or office in which they may wish to work to see if there are any opportunities for student employment. Many students find this personal outreach to be the most successful way of finding on-campus employment.

To view all open student employment opportunities, visit the North Central College website, <https://www.northcentralcollege.edu/work-here>. Students may view positions and apply directly to each job that is of interest. Hiring managers will contact students directly for an interview.

Once an offer of employment has been extended, students will be required to undergo a background check and provide specific documentation to Human Resources as required by federal law. For more information, please contact the Human Resources office at 630-637-5757.

The North Central College Bookstore is located at 100 E. Jefferson Ave. at the corner of Jefferson Avenue and Ellsworth Street and carries North Central clothing and gift items, educationally priced software, art supplies, residence hall supplies, backpacks, trade books (both fiction and nonfiction), faculty author titles, candy, class rings by Herff Jones and diploma frames by Framing Success.
